

July 15, 1965

Today this tree, which is now 82 feet high and 6 feet 2½ inches in diameter, 4½ feet above the ground is subject to some jeopardy by the planners of the State Capitol grounds, since it closes off one lane of traffic on the street approaching the Capitol building on the primary axis, plus the normal expansion required in the growth of the Capitol office building development in this direction.